

Local Immigration Partnerships and the Réseaux en immigration francophone: Strategies for Increasing Harmonization and Developing Performance Measurement Tools

This project was under the direction of Victoria Esses at Western University and funded by Citizenship and Immigration Canada. I worked together with another research assistant doing document analysis and interview summaries for Local Immigrant Partnerships (LIPs) and Réseaux en immigration francophone (RIFs) in St. John's, NL, Halifax, NS, and Surrey, BC. I prepared comparative summaries of the document and interview data for all three sites.
