

New Brunswick's Population Dynamics: Insights from Census Data

This project was commissioned by the Labour division of the New Brunswick Department of Post-Secondary Education, Training and Labour and utilized confidential Canadian census data from 1991 – 2006 to identify historical in- and out-migration patterns of human capital for the province. Human capital was defined by amount or level of education as well as by type or field of study. There was a focus on the interprovincial migration of human capital.