Project Title: What kind of man are you?: Same-sex relations, masculinity and Anglican Angst

1. Research Assistantship

This research funding was in the context of a project looking at issues of masculinity in the current Anglican debate around same-sex unions. I hired an MA student specializing in gender, E. Meaghan Matheson, as research assistant. Her responsibilities included a systematic and detailed review of all on-line and print material dealing with this issue, in addition to the production of a detailed research report. Her work was instrumental in the paper that I produced for publication following the April 2011 ‘Hot Spots’ Conference.

2. Finances

Breakdown of Expenses
Student Funding*
Amount	Name	Dates	Project
Student Stipends
Student Assistantship		$6,110.99

NOTE: There were no non-student monies expended. The balance of $939 will most likely be used in the coming year for travel and related administrative expenses.
